

09/989430

ABSTRACT

This invention relates to a bulb structure, which includes a glass shell, a pair of conductive wires, and a tungsten filament between the wires in the shell. The characteristic of the invention is that the glass 5 shell of the bulb has a top portion, which can be any structure of a convex lens to condense light as a lighting spot for increasing a lighting decorative effect of a light string.